Major Dance Numbers Help Tell 'Sand' Story

Five major dances will help tell the story of the march of the Mormon Battalion in the musical, "Sand in Their Shoes," which will be performed Friday, Saturday, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday on the gigantic stage in the BYU stadium.

ROY FITZELL, choreographer for the Steve Allen Show, has created new and different dances for the men, the women and special numbers for the combined groups. Forty-five dances will be performing under his supervision during the five night show.

According to Dr. Harold L. Hansen, director of the mammoth show, the dances are designed to move the story forward. Some dances reflect what is happening while others are reflections in the past he said. Dancers are integrated into the cast as pioneers and members of the battalion.

MUSIC FOR "SAND IN THEIR SHOES" was written by Dr. Crawford Gates, composer of "Promised Valley," Hill Cumorah Pageant, and the symphony "Song from the Book of Mormon." The story is taken from the book written by Don Oscarson, a BYU graduate.

Seven well-known singers and actors will play the leading roles supported by a cast of hundreds. Staging calls for full-scale houses, hundreds of marching men, women and children, men on horseback, covered wagons and a stockade.

THE SOUND SYSTEM for the production was designed by Dr. Harvey Fletcher, father of stereophonic sound.

'Aggression' Stab Fails To Pierce U. N. Council

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., May 24.—(UPI)—The United States, fully confident of acquittal, pressed today for an early Security Council verdict on the spy plane "aggression," charges brought by Russia.

United Nations sources agreed Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, in his contention that U.S. espionage was a threat to world peace, had failed to impress the 11 nation council, with the likely exception of Communist Poland.

THE TACTICS of U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge as the explosive debate entered its second day were geared to deprive the Soviets of time for propaganda.

Gromyko's request for a condemnation of the United States already was overshadowed by growing small nation agitation for the two nations to quit bickering over cold war incidents and resume negotiations broken off at the Paris Summit meeting last week.

ARGENTINA, Ecuador, Ceylon and Tunisia yesterday submitted a resolution urging the Big Four to renew efforts to end world tensions by taking full advantage of facilities offered by the U.N.

To give Russia a fair hearing, these four non-permanent members of the council agreed to postpone consideration of their resolution until the U.S.-reconnaissance plane case is formally disposed of.

PRESIDENT Eisenhower's new plan for open skies inspection under U.N. regulation was not adopted. Ambassador Lodge made it clear from the start he had no wish to evade or obscure the Soviet charges but intended to meet them head-on.

This he did in his initial rebuttal to Gromyko's hour long speech yesterday by charging the Red Army with sending thousands of espionage agents throughout the non-Communist world, of which about 360 have been caught and convicted since the death of Dictator Josef Stalin.

THE U.S. Ambassador read a partial list of Soviet spies who have been unmasked in the United States.

Lodge also cited the fact that a Soviet vessel was discovered spying on U.S. naval ships off Long Island Point, Long Island, a few weeks ago.

The final opportunity for sentimental or semester-frantic students to take classes on the quarter system is still open.

SUMMER SCHOOL registration continues this week with more schools adding daily. Shep to Mid, Tuesday; Mic to Hol, Wednesday; Hol to Cri, Thursday; and Cre to Au and latecomers Friday.

JUN 13 will be official registration day for new and returning students and for currently enrolled students who did not pre-register. Those who want to do graduate work this summer after their graduation in June should register in the Graduate School office, 385 McKay Bldg.

THE FIRST summer school session will begin June 13 and end July 15. Second session is July 18 to Aug. 19.

Students registered student must pick up a registration packet at his dean's office, consult with his registration adviser and dean and plan his program and obtain planned signatures, and then take it up to the cashier's office to pay fees. After paying fees he may finalize his registration in Smith Hallroom, on his assigned day.

MANY COURSES will be offered on a quarter basis during the summer. Classes are coordinated so the work of the second term is a logical extension of the first term, officials report.

seemly will have particular meaning to all BYU students by portraying a minute of the school life of everyone from a Wyoming husband to a Shoshone Kiyel woman.

EAST Saturday morning gathering sessions will meet at the Smith Bldg. for the annual trek that winds around the seldom-seen campus shrines and includes a hike up to the cliffs above the blockhouse to paint the symbol. Highlights of the excursion include community singing and a box lunch—and paint of course.

All seniors who want a box lunch for the trek should purchase their tickets Tuesday or Wednesday, Diana Duffin, chairman of the trek committee, said. Cost for 60 cents from now to 3 p.m. in Eyring Science Center. Only those who want a box lunch need buy a ticket.

THAT EVENING in Smith Family Living Center seniors and their guests will dance to the music of The Knights at senior ball. Admissions in Time Tickets are $1.

On June 2, Elder Howard W. Hunter will speak to the graduating class at the Baccalaureate services which will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Smith Bldg.

MEAL ENDS—The brown potato, milk and fruit juice are on the menu for the senior breakfast June 3 on the lawn east of the Smith Bldg.

GRAD GUMPTION—Jane Swift (l), Mrs. Letta Christensen, postmistress and Bob Swift prepare to send graduation announcements out to places unknown. Next week has been proclaimed "Senior Week" at BYU.

Passing the Buck

An old timer we know says, "Well it's all over but the shouting," when some function or program on which he has been working comes to an end.

That seems to be pretty close to what student officers must be feeling as they turn the reins of government over to their successors.

The "shouting" in this case is probably pretty subdued. Except for a few nostalgic moments of reviewing, things are marching on toward tomorrow and tomorrow and tomorrow.

In the traditional "pass the buck" program held last night, the outgoing officers passed the reins of office to the young incoming Cougars. With the hand-shake, the good luck wish went the traditional "buck," a dollar bill upon which holders of the office for years passed had written their names.

With enthusiasm and diligence the incoming student leaders are planning "bigger and better" things in each area. This is as it should be. For those who are leaving it is good to know that things will move forward.

It is also good to know that those who have laid it on the line this year be recognized. The accomplishment of student leaders in all areas of the school has been many. There have been failures. There have been reverses. The balance sheet, when totaled up must mistakenly indicate that the successes have been very great and the failures minute. So to the quarterback of the studentbody team a rousing cheer.

There are many, as Rex Lee, studentbody president pointed out, who weren't quarterbacks this year. He paid tribute, as do we, to those on the line, the tackles and the guards, the ends and the centers, who gave and gave. Those students who were assistant committee chairmen or beat reporters, or whatever background role they played, must realize that their efforts are responsible for any degree of success this year has seen.

To those who passed the buck, good bye. To those who got the buck, good luck.

BYU's Ambassador

With enrollments in institutions of higher learning growing at a dizzying rate there could be a tendency on the part of university administrators to want to "run their own show." With more students clamoring for admission than can possibly be accepted there is not so much pressure seek and accept advice from other people in the education field. There could be an inclination to ascend to the ivory tower.

At Brigham Young University, this possible inclination has been stifled, at least in relationship of the university and secondary school educators in Utah.

The man responsible for this encouraging movement is Vice President Harvey L. Taylor, of the administrative council. Dr. Taylor has just returned from a 10 week tour of the states.

With his wife, he held interviews with district school superintendents and every high school principal in the state. The purpose of this extensive tour, we understand, was to find out from secondary educators what they thought were the strong and weak points of BYU.

The results of this investigation, notes on which cover 400 tightly typed pages, will be used in making plans for BYU's future. The opinions expressed, the ideas brought forth will be weighed and sifted carefully and painstakingly. In these days, when it seems the conveying of information has been reduced to a printed form, it seems important that this university would undertake unorthodox methods of fact gathering.

We are sure that as valuable as the material which Dr. Taylor has written on his notes may be, there is something more valuable which is not in the notes. We are sure that the seeds of friendship which Dr. Taylor planted throughout the state, with his dynamic warmth and his sincere desire to aid others, will bear fruit for years to come.

Jungle Aviators Fly Mercy Missions

Special to the Universe

Imagining yourself on a short flight from a small jungle outpost to an absolutely uncivilized place where you don't know what to expect. You'd wonder about your perception and your chances of coming back alive.

IN JUST SUCH a manner five courageous young men set out to convert the Indians of Aucas of Ecuador with only one weapon—love. Early radio reports from the group indicated that all was going well. Then suddenly at 3:30 p.m., Jan. 4, 1956, a radio in their home base crackled: "Hello, we are the Aucas we have been seen before" and lapsed into fatal silence.

While an anxious world waited, a hastily organized search party set out to investigate. And one of the first things that were found at that tragic site on the banks of the Curaray River was a small black box. It contained a radio transceiver which had been the last link between the living and those who died at the hands of the Aucas.

SINCE THEN, in the same area, though in less hostile surroundings, two women, a sister and a mother of two of the Indians have received training of the Aucas language to writing. Their hope is to teach the Aucas the message of Christianity. These two valiant missionaries kept in contact with the outside world by newspaper radio and had their frugal necessities of life flown in by plane.

The character of heroism and daring in missionary work, though still needed, has however lost some of its effectiveness due to the effective use of radio and aviation in missionary work began. Teamed together they make available instant communication and rapid access to vast areas otherwise inaccessible. Flying over a plane covers a whole day's jungle trek while emergency advice by radio can often save a life or avert tragic mistakes.

IN THE Bolivian headwaters of the Amazon, north of the Andes, is greatly hampered by rivers and dense jungle. Yet here again radio and plane proved to be just the thing to break down the barriers. A year ago, two members of the Wycliffe Bible Translators, a group which specializes in translating the Bible into unwritten languages, got to a "lost tribe" in their area.

Finding no trace of it in a search of the rivers by launch, they called a helicopter and did for a pilot to help. After several hours in the air, the men spotted something which looked like a village. The plane set down to investigate, and a long trail was found. Xerxes, a fifteen-year-old Indian, was located with them, translating the Bible into their language.

STANDING behind this march of progress is a small group of highly skilled pilots and mechanics. They are a dedicated lot who live in the most primitive conditions and on skimpy missionary allowances. It is up to them to keep radio equipment going despite high humidity, and to fly in top condition to meet the rigorous demands of mountain flying.

Many of the missionary pilots have also been trained at the MAF Bible Institute in China. After three years of training there, they are fully qualified in cross-country, night, instrument and seaplane flying. They also get experience in such techniques as map reading, which is it is possible for a pilot to talk by phone with a person on the ground while circling overhead.

ON GRADUATION these men serve with such groups as Wycliffe Bible Translators and the Missionary Aviation Fellowship, which operates a jungle air-taxi service for missions in Central and South America, Africa and Asia.

And so around the world the work of missionaries, "ambassadors for Christ," is speeded by a small corps of technical specialists. By using the modern tools of radio and avionics, the barriers of time and distance while conquering hitherto impossible obstacles.

TIGHT LANDING—Hazardous landings and sudden storms are routine for highly skilled missionary pilots. Here a cow pasture serves as an airstrip. The surrounding dense jungle and terrain leave no room for error.

More NSDAP

Dear Editor:

In last year's "Student Inquiry" of the Universe, a number of students were confronted with the question, "What is the greatest threat to Americans?" The answer was "The NSDAP." Taking this statement seriously, I contacted the girl in order to learn more about her opinion and tell her how wrong she was. She informed me that she was just joking. Her remembrance of the NSDAP was vague, so I then consider Mr. Schulze's letter concerning the persecution of the Jews in Nazi Germany as being another bad joke not worth an answer.

THE NSDAP is a good organization? Certainly. Unparalleled in the organization of crimes, such as the extinction of other races and beliefs and the invasion of surrounding countries. Everyone who served the Reich, even the supposed communists, I expect the older generation of Germany to admit that their lives and actions during the time of Hitler were an error.

THEY WERE not a crime, for the average German soldier who fought in the war was motivated by the desire to defend his country and to protect his wife and children at home. But today every intelligent German should realize that his service to the Nazi State was a mistake, and he should at least feel sorry.

There is a lot to be ashamed of. Theodor Heuss, the former president of West Germany, once said, "We are a nation which is ashamed." If Mr. Schulze were a good German patriot, he would be ashamed of what was done in the name of the country he pretends to love.

THE APPEAL "Deutschland erwache!" is it rather German to task to keep quiet and to behave in the society of nations.

The fifteen years since the end of the war prove that Germany has advanced toward this goal, and since the number of people who are still Nazis is relatively small, it is likely that Germany will make further progress in becoming a valuable member of the community of nations.

Wilhelm Grothmann

Ends Matter

Dear Editor:

The highly-belligerent replies to the non-aggressive views of the NSDAP appear in the May 17 Universe. Are classic examples of the unfortunate lack of understanding among people even on the individual level.

This, in my opinion, is the reason why nations of the world are inclined to conclude peace negotiations—a general attitude of distrust and belligerency.

MR. POLCAR seems to suggest one motivation in referring

Y Protests Proposed Relocation Of U.S. 189 Near Film Studio

Protests have come from Brigham Young University representatives against a proposed relocation of a proposed route for the relocation of U. S. Highway 189.

AT A PREVIEW meeting Friday afternoon the representatives declared the new route would present grave danger to travelers and would force the closing of a state forest and dairy area. The engineering factors would be the curving of the proposed road east from the University Avenue extension, complicated by a proposed approach from the Orem 13th kilometer freeway approach in this area.

Tentative plans call for an extension of University Avenue due north to about 2300 North;
then a curve east to 150 East.
Extension of University Avenue would follow the present construction for only a mile north of 2320 North, bringing it almost to the Riverside Country Club, then two-lane construction for three and one-half miles. The road officials said.

AT THIS meeting President BYU were Bert E. Lewis, director of auxiliary services, and Sam Brewster, head of the physical plant. Brewster said BYU property, which might run at $500,000, and the cost and cost of relocation would be high and would disrupt schedules of classes.

It was suggested at the meeting that the rapid suburbanization of the Riverside Country Club area would eventually force BYU to move its studio and dairy anyway. L. Dale Desplain, planning consultant, told the group at the meeting that only a few years ago BYU had been acquired land which would give quiet and privacy if they chose a good-sized tract.

The formal hearing on the proposed extension of University Avenue will be conducted Friday at 10 a.m. at Provo High School under the direction of

Dodgers Wrestle with Koufax Display

By Fred Down
United Press International

The Dodgers are wrestling with a five-year-old question again. Is Sandy Koufax the way to stardom? Was Monday night's one-hitter just another false start?

IT'S THE SAME old question they've been trying to answer about the 21-year-old fireballer ever since he was signed to a $21,000 bonus contract in 1954. One day Sandy looks like a world beater. Then weeks, even months, may pass before he wins another game.

His 1-0 victory over the National League-leading Pittsburgh Pirates, for example, was his first triumph since August 31, 1959 when he tied Bob Feller's Major League strikeout record by striking out 18 San Francisco Giants in one game. They were saying after that one that Sandy finally had found himself and they were wrong. Now they're saying it again—only this time with a little less confidence.

ONLY ONE WENING remains constant about Koufax—when he's really got it he's one of the most overpowering pitchers anybody's ever seen.

It was like that Monday night when 6-foot-2, 210-pound Sandy struck out 18 in the second inning to pitcher Benny Daniels and then just "bombed" the Pirates with his fast balls. He walked six but he struck out 10 and there wasn't a semblance
